Sonnet XXIX

As brave Leander crossed the sea, burning with flames of love, the wind picked up, and the water then started to get rough with a furious violence.

Worn out by the rush of his ill-prepared, frantic work, to overcome the waves,
and more distressed by the joy that he stood to lose than about the loss of his life, he raised as best he could his weary voice and to the waves spoke out in the following manner, though they never heard his voice:

"Waves, just let me get there, and when I return, your rage may take its toll upon my life."
